HISTORICAL NOTES:

This building, formerly known as "The Waynesboro Inn", is said to have been erected between the beginning and the end of the American Revolution. President George Washington is said to have stopped here in 1791 when he traveled from Augusta to Savannah.

A tablet in front of the house is inscribed, "To honor George Washington who lodged here May 17-18, 1791".

The house is frame, two storeys high and has two one storey wings at the rear.
